

The Yale Child Study Center's Lecture Series in Greenwich

Parenting the Anxious Child

Speaker: Michael Crowley, Ph.D.

Associate Research Scientist, Yale Child Study Center;
Associate Director, Developmental Electrophysiology Laboratory

Thursday, November 5th, 2009 from 7 – 8 P.M.

Greenwich Hospital – Noble Conference Room

5 Perryridge Road, Greenwich, CT. 06830

How can parents recognize anxieties that affect their child's happiness and well being? What can they do to help their child overcome them? A clinically-trained child research scientist answers this important two-part question by describing various anxiety-caused behavior patterns and advising parents on ways to help their child within the context of both family and school environments. FREE WITH ADVANCE REGISTRATION.

Registration required.

Register online at www.greenhosp.org or call (203) 863-3627 or toll-free (888) 357-2409

Presented in cooperation with Greenwich Hospital and the Yale Child Study Center

Yale Child Study Center

GREENWICH HOSPITAL

YALE NEW HAVEN HEALTH

For more information on the Yale Child Study Center's lecture series at Greenwich Hospital, please contact Emily Deegan via e-mail at emily.deegan@yale.edu or call 203-785-5759.